

International Climatic Conference – Who win? Who lose?

narrator	Oh! Global warming has become more serious. The global average temperature has increased 0.75 Degree Celsius in the past 100 years. Many countries are facing droughts and flooding. Besides, many islands will sink due to the global warming. Therefore, countries are having a meeting to solve this serious problem. However, they have arguments about the CO2 emissions and reduction. Let's see what they are talking about.
Representatives from  USA (MDCs)  CHINA (LDCs)	Disputes over the responsibility in CO2 reduction Chairman: In order to solve the problem of global warming, different countries have to set targets to reduce CO2 emissions. More developed countries should contribute more and set higher targets for CO2 reduction. The developed countries are also advised to offer subsidies to the less developed countries so that they have more resources to improve their energy efficiency. USA: Wait. Why do we have to pay more for less developed countries? That's none of our business. China: Because we're less developed countries, so we have less money. That's why... USA: China, do you know what you're saying? You no longer have lower economic development. Why should I pay you money? I'll offer some subsidies to poor countries, but not too much. y China: Oh, the most powerful country is now going to break its promise. USA: (Stand up) How selfish you are, China! How can I maintain my economy after meeting my targets and paying others' subsidies? China: You have so much wealth, but you say you can't afford it... USA: We have 20 trillion dollars of debt. We have to take care of ourselves. Chairman: (Slap the table) Enough! Let's get into the topic! So how do you think, China? China: I think it's pretty reasonable since more developed countries have better technology to reduce CO2 emission. For the less developed countries like ours, we do not have enough money to reduce our CO2 emissions.

	USA: But you are not poor anymore. And in recent years, guess who emits the greatest amount of CO2? It's you, China! (point to China) You have the greatest responsibility in the reduction. China: Don't you remember that we were not industrialized until later in the 20th century? In the 19th century and 20th century, you emitted even more CO2 than we are emitting now. You also have responsibility to reduce CO2 emissions. USA: We're talking about now, not past centuries. China: If you ignore your responsibility, what will people think of you? Coward. USA: (Throw the file to China) How dare you say that? You're dishonest. China: (Stand up) How dare you do that? USA: If you don't want World War 3 break out, then just ... Chairman: Calm down gentlemen! . (everyone leave the conference room)
Protest against the climatic conference Island countries	(The world presidents walk out) Island countries Tuvalu, Maldives etc: Help me! Help me to reduce global warming! My land is sinking ! (hold the banner) ( The securities block them ) USA president: the USA will do its best to help your country. Island countries Tuvalu1: I hate your country. The MCDs emit a lot of greenhouse gases such as carbon dioxide and methane by burning coal and oil. They are over-emitting. USA president: We will solve the problem efficiently. Island countries Tuvalu1: You will solve the problem? Shut up! You can't ! Although USA has set up targets, its emission of carbon dioxide have increased 27%. USA emitted 5610 million metric tones of carbon dioxide in 2010 and produced 50% of the world's greenhouse gases . The emission have increase rapidly .

	Island countries Tuvalu2: The factories will make more pollution in the environment by using more electricity and emit CO2. I hope you can help us and not just care about money. Island countries Tuvalu2: I don't want to move to New Zealand. I love my country very much. I want to stay in my country forever. Don't sink. (Kneel down) Island countries: I hope you can help us, big countries like USA and China. We do not have much money to solve the problem. Can you please help LDCs with new technology to reduce the greenhouse gases to slow down the global warming!
Mr. Earth (very sad)	The human beings are very selfish. They only care about themselves. I am suffering from increasing temperature. I am changing. My ice caps melt. My rivers dry up. Lot of species go extinct. Dear audience, What is your response?
