Sam:	No way, Leo! Don't give up easily! You need to learn this yourself. It's important!
Prince Leo:	But it's too difficult... And what if I fail?
Sam:	Then you need to find the answers yourself. (thinks) Why not ask Princess Pi? She's great at maths!

Monster 1:	Hello, young prince! Solve my riddle, and I'll help you find the way!
Prince Leo:	Okay! What's your riddle?
Monster 1:	What is the value of π (pi) rounded off to two decimal places?
Prince Leo:	(thinks hard) 3.14!

Prince Leo:	(quickly) Pi is the ratio of the circumference to the diameter of a circle; that is about 3.14159265358979323846.
	I remember my teacher showed me this in class... (Show Demonstration on screen: https://www.geogebra.org/m/YV8zcB6c) The circumference is about 3.14 times the diameter of the circle!
Monster 2:	Hmm... Not bad! Let's try another one: What is the equation of circumference?
Prince Leo:	Easy! It is pi times the diameter
Monster 2:	Well done! The princess is close now. (points to the way out)
(Prince Leo follows the direction)
Monster 2:	And Prince Leo, you're actually good at Maths! Be more confident in yourself!

Monster 3:	You're on fire, Prince! Go on!
